EDITORS NOTE

This issue is devoted to the collections of, and activities in, certain museums in the counties of Yorkshire. The range of articles - from notes on a specific collection to general notes on a whole collection through to biological recording (whether by fair means or foul) give an indication of the energy and expertise in the natural sciences in this area. Promises of other 'Yorkshire' articles will probably result in a continuation of this regional theme into the next newsletter. However, potential authors of articles for the newsletter should not be dissuaded from putting pen to paper - the more items received the greater the opportunity to develop other themes for future issues.
